business trip to Bloomfield the last week.

Our people will plant a large acreage in wheat and hay this fall.

The Graham Mill company will soon have their mill at this place in running order. This is a much-needed enterprise.

The writer was down to see the much-talked-of city of Chaffee. It is situated in Scott county, seven miles northeast of Oran, on the Frisco railroad. The wide streets and concrete pavements, brick 2 to 4 story business blocks, fine passenger and freight depots, large 4-story pressed brick hotel, and the town lighted by electricity, where, four years ago, there was only the plat of ground it stands on, fills one with wonder. The works of man are mighty.

Yes, the people of this end of the county are demanding a bridge across Crooked creek. The people in some parts of the county don't understand the disadvantages we are laboring under. During the wet season of the year we are almost cut off from the balance of the county. Our mail from Drum, if it gets to Luffin, has to be carried around some two miles off the main road. Leopold, a thriving little town, is compelled to go to Latesville, over bad roads, for her freights. We are hampered in on one side by Crooked creek, on the other by Hog creek, on the north by Hurricane creek. If we can get a bridge we can get a rural mail route, also a depot house and flouring mill. A bridge will enhance the value of our really and built up our town. We believe in the wisdom of our county court and will appreciate such assistance as it may give us along this line.

A CITIZEN.
